

Hide Verberne - CEO Orthometals

Orthometals is the world's leading recycler of implants generated by crematoria. Founded in 1997 and started in The Netherland, it is nowadays a company that works on six continents. With a recycling facility in The Netherlands and in the United States it is able to service all their clients to the highest level. In partnership with ICD Europe, global supplier of primary metals and superalloys, from the United Kingdom, we offer a full cradle to cradle solution. Through this unique partnership collected implants will be sorted, treated and melted down into ingots, ready to be sold back into the medical industry.
